The DIMMER VIEW

NATO and the Trojan Horse

Portugal is in the news but few people view it with alarm because the Israeli-Arab confrontations have been spotlighted.

But the Portugal matter is more important than many people realize. The iceberg tip broke through at the recent Albania meeting when it became a question whether Portugal would continue membership in the North America Treaty Organization.

Both President Ford and Secretary Kissinger met with the Portuguese leaders in attendance. They are reported to have assured their colleagues that they need not fear that Portugal would become a "Trojan Horse" within NATO. Portugal is not a Communist-dominated country, they said, despite the fact that there are Communist ministers within the government. This was explained on grounds that the present government must give due account and representation to all domestic political forces in order to prevent civil war.

Maybe the non-Communist elements in the left-leaning Portugal government really do believe that a live and let live arrangement with the Communists can continue. If so, they are grossly naive. History cries out the opposite.

Communists never willingly share power with anyone any longer than necessary. Ultimately, they demand it all. Coalitions, as any doctrinal discussion makes plain, are only tactics toward total Communist control.

The Portuguese socialists, who won a clear-cut victory at the polls in recent elections, are already finding this out the hard way. They are bitterly complaining that the Communists are moving to seize power at their expense.

NATO's concern, therefore, is well justified. President Ford is reported to have remarked that if Portugal came under Communist control "the impact would be unfortunate and somewhat incompatible with the purposes of NATO."

That is a diplomatic masterpiece of understatement!

It is quite inevitable that sooner or later the Communists will make their bid for total power. NATO and the United States therefore face some hard choices.

Either the Alliance must intervene in some practical way to forestall this takeover, or see a new Soviet ally spring up on the Atlantic coast.

And this must be the subject of a real debate within the corridors of NATO — and soon.

The Apathetic Victim

It happened in Lemon Grove this week.

An off-duty sheriff's deputy leaving his residence saw two men peering over a neighbor's fence. One boosted the other up and the answer came down, "no dog!"

The deputy called the Sheriff's business office and reported his observations. While he was talking his wife saw the men enter the neighbor's garage and close the door behind. The o.d. deputy walked over and got the license number of the car the suspects had driven and reported that. Then he walked over, unarmed, to keep watch.

When a patrol unit came a little later, one of the officers handed him a shotgun and he led the way into the backyard where he thought the two would be. They were there.

They had a cardboard carton of household items including tools. One was trying on a pair of shoes that belonged to the owner of the house.

He placed the two under arrest and handed them over to the two on-duty officers. Then he went down to the Lemon Grove office of the Sheriff's Department and wrote his lengthy report as the duo were processed and transported to County Jail.

The neighbors came home near midnight and they were asked to go down to the Lemon Grove office and identify their possessions and take it home.

They made an identification but they declined to prosecute. They said the lads were friends of theirs.

Perhaps they were. Fine friends!

The reader should put a personal moral on this story. The moral should help explain why there is more crime today than ever before.

We've heard the blame put on parents, on police, on district attorneys and on the courts.

The reader who calls it apathy would come pretty close to the right moral. Every time a victim refuses to prosecute a burglar he is inviting more of the same for himself and other citizens who might not be guilty of anything — not even an apathetic view of prosecution.

And the officer who was responsible for the apprehension, he got nothing — except an off evening wasted.

Lemon Grove Fire District OK's $3/4 Million Budget

The Lemon Grove Fire Protection District have set a budget of $755,504 this year — up from $633,696. But the tax rate is scheduled to stay the same — somewhere near 83 cents for each $100 assessed valuation of local property.

The District's board of directors approved the budget on July 14 after a series of public hearings.

The biggest increase was in salaries and employee benefits — up $33,000 from last year's $384,657 to $416,974 this year.

Services and supplies are up from $57,439 to $71,960. Fixed assets went from $1,600 last year to $11,570 this year.

New Equipment Needed
"Fixed assets," said Fire Chief Fred Dixon, "were increased to accommodate equipment we must replace eventually. Some of it is 25 years old and is nearing the bills."

The operational budget is up $57,000 from $443,696 from last year to $500,504 this year. The reserve account is raised, too. General reserves are increased from $165,000 to $183,000.

Reserve Fund Started

Last year there was nothing in the new fire apparatus reserves. This year the reserve fund is $30,000. Emergency and leave liability is up from $25,000 last year to $42,000 this year.

Reserves total is $255,000; up from $190,000 last year.

The total budget is $755,504; $121,000 higher than last year.

The budget, following adoption, was sent to the County Board of Supervisors and the various county offices at which the property tax rate is to be determined and added to local property owners' tax bills.

Luxury Lake Homes Brew Storm Atop Mount Helix

The classic confrontation between land developers and environmentalists is brewing in the Lake Helix area.

On one side of the fence is M. H. Golden Construction Co., builders of a new luxury housing complex on a 21.5 acre Mt. Helix land mass which includes the lake.

On the other side are residents of the surrounding community whose homes dot the hilly northern exposure of Mt. Helix. Banded together under the name Friends of Lake Helix, the residents of the unincorporated area are concerned about the "character" changes that the new development will impose.

Though the property in question has been owned by the construction firm for a number of years, neighbors have claimed the lake as public domain, according to Ralph Wier, director of real estate development at Golden. Residents have broken through the wire fence surrounding the site on a number of occasions and have removed private property signs.

Face Off

Last week, both factions faced off at Monte Vista High school at a public hearing before the Valle de Oro Planning Association, a committee formed to establish a long-range organized development plan for portions of unincorporated East County including Mt. Helix (as well as much of Spring Valley and Casa de Oro).

Friends of Lake Helix were represented at the meeting by Lucile DeWaide who joined others in arguing against the project for a number of reasons, most notably that the plan threatened the natural beauty of the neighborhood.

Representing the construction company was Wier, who countered with the explanation that, from an environmental standpoint, the project is the best alternative for what he calls a misused property.

The lake is actually the remains of an antiquated water reservoir formerly maintained by the local water works. An enterprise called Helix Lake Investment Co. bought the property from the Helix Water District in 1961. Today, according to scientists under contract with Golden Co., the lake is drying up and dying.

Wier said that in September, 1974, many dead fish were found "belly-up" on the lake's surface. Most of the living creatures in the body of water are now dead, he said, blaming the lake's shrinkage and septic system leakage for the turbid state of the water.

Ironically, it is the condition of the lake area that is the basis of a court injunction plea filed by the Friends of Lake Helix which would stop preliminary work at the construction site. Friends claim that the property should be bequeathed to the public and turned into a natural wildlife preserve because Golden Construction Co. has done nothing to improve the condition of the land in the 14 years that it has owned it.

A superior court ruling on the injunction is expected this week.

Plans for Lake

When draining of the lake — now in progress — is completed, the sediment will be dredged. The bed of the lake, Golden has determined, is filled with polluting dissolved solvents precipitated from rainfall and leakage of septic systems in the area.

Under the construction plan the lake's surface area will be enlarged from its original 3 acres to 4 acres and will be

Kids in Kars: Battering Ram

Ruth V. Adams, of San Diego, owner of property at 7943 1/2 Lincoln st., Lemon Grove, told sheriff's men that on July 12 she had asked owners of an old auto to remove it from the driveway of the garage on her property.

On July 20, when she next visited the property, the garage door had been bashed in.

A witness claims to have heard a loud noise at about 2 a.m. during the period and had observed three youngsters laughing and joking as they crashed their car into the garage door the second and third time.

Following that and other clues, officers apprehended boys who were 14, 15 and 16. The 15-year old was charged with the destruction, implicating the others.

Damage was estimated to be $200, the owner said.

Sign Ordinance Fight Plans Discussed Today

Incorporation Tops 1,000 Names on List

More than 1,000 signatures have been gathered for Lemon Grove's move toward an incorporation election, it was announced Wednesday by John Stenbeck, co-chairman of Citizens for Incorporation.

450 signatures were required by the County Board of Supervisors before the board asks LAFCO (Local Agency Formation Commission) to decide on the feasibility of forming a city.

During a meeting of the executive committee Wednesday, the group agreed to set up an account into which funds could be placed for promoting the election.

Those who want to contribute may do so by making a check payable to Citizens for Incorporation and mailing it to P.O. Box 97, Lemon Grove, 92045.

Donors name and address should be on the check.

Tobiason had also rearranged all the furniture to better suit him in his newly acquired home.

He will have no problem with furniture, potted plants nor fish bowls now that he's in County Jail awaiting arraignment and/or sanity tests.

The first was that the man, Robert Fimar Tobiason, a white male, unemployed general helper was from Milwau-kee and that he had no business there. With that, Travis placed him under citizens' arrest.

Inside, they found Travis had indeed been living there while they were gone; the cupboards and refrigerator were bare; all the hanging suspects.

Grossmont College Budget $17 1/2 Million; Small Tax Cut

A highly respected area school superintendent once admitted that he didn't understand school financing.

He's got nothing on those who concern themselves with the budget at Grossmont Community College. Occasionally it appears that confusion reigns with people who pay taxes to support it.

That helps set some of the atmosphere for the presentation of the college's 1975-1976 budget — a budget of $17.5 million dollars. The budget was presented to Grossmont College trustees earlier this month.

The budget was $3.3 million higher than last year's.

The new budget called for an increase of 8.6 cents in the tax rate — or 85.4 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation. Last year it was 72.1 cents.

Some of the trustees reacted angrily, it was reported. The basis for the reaction was that the increase was mostly for noninstructional items.

The budget was returned to the administration with instructions to "cut it."

Increase to Decrease

The re-worked budget came out with approximately the same $17.5 million total but the tax rate had been lopped from the proposed 8.6 cents increase to a 4.7 cent reduction — a 13.3 cent reduction.

The Grossmont College auditing department supplied an explanation. It goes like this:

"We found $542,000 more in the beginning balance than we thought we had. There was also $74,000 more in federal and $15,000 in state funds. It was found that $10,000 in county funds and $605,000 of local income were not required."

Assessed Valuation Rises
"Assessed valuation rose by 16 1/2 per cent," the auditor explained.

The college district's $640 million of assessed valuation had increased by more than $103 million. At last year's 72.1 cents for each $100 of assessed value that would have produced nearly three-quarters of a million dollars more than what the budget originally showed.

Complaints Made

William Burns, assistant superintendent for business services said that the reduction in spending and the collateral reduction of the 85.4 cent tax rate by 13.3 cents answered complaints that the proposed tax increase was great.

He said that several programs had been cut by a total of $199,300 plus a reduction of $34,000 in the district's community service budget. The carry-over obligation from last year's business and the increase in classified employee's salaries absorbed the latter two savings, Burns said.

Financial commitments to the second college campus, the $2.1 million civic auditorium on which construction started this week, and inflation, were given as reasons for the increase of $3.3 million over last year's $14.2 million budget.

Initial grading on the second campus begins next month and an estimated $8.9 million will be need to construct it.

The revised budget will be considered by trustees at their August 5 meeting.

See! School financing isn't complicated after all.

INFORMATION CENTER — New sign in front of what has been known as the "Crisis Cottage," 3270 Main st., proclaims the center's new name.

Crisis House Drops Name; Hopes For Better Image

Lemon Grove's Crisis Cottage has a new name. Announced last week by Lemon Grove Citizens Advisory Committee director Fred Anderson, the volunteer service will now be known as Lemon Grove Information and Referral Service.

The change was made to more clearly identify the services of the Center located at 3270 Main st. in Lemon Grove.

"Our main function is to give information and to rap to people who need someone to talk to," said Robin Clark, volunteer who answers the phone at the house during the day. "A lot of rumors have started in the community that we're a crash pad for run-aways, drug and alcohol abusers."

Actually, she said, no one has ever stayed in the home overnight. There are no counselors, medical personnel, legal representatives or other professionals at the center but there is a list of people to contact when needs arise.

Race Day Sunday to Raise Funds for Lung Association

Galloping inflation is bridling the progress the Lung Association has sustained for years in training specialists to care for persons suffering from chronic lung disease.

"Friends of the Lung Association" have taken on the duty of raising more funds for medical education by sponsoring a "Day at the Races" in the Del Mar Turf Club on Sunday.

Funds derived from the races will be channeled by The Lung Association into programs educating health professionals to care for the over 100,000 persons in this area having various forms of lung disease.

Those interested in obtaining a ticket for the event may contact The Lung Association at 297-3901.

He recently prepared the Youth Symphony for the world premier of "Overture to Pericles," composed and conducted by Alan Hovhanness. They also performed Hovhanness' "And God Created Whales" on an ABC television special.

This Week's RECIPE

Scalloped Potatoes Cooked in Milk

California is the land of milk and cheese and dozens of other nourishing dairy foods important in meal planning. Milk is outstanding as a source of calcium, protein, vitamin A, and riboflavin. Cheese contains many of milk's nutrients in concentrated form. For a delicious new way to enjoy them, try these scalloped potatoes. To speed up the cooking time, do part on top of the stove and finish them in the oven. They're superb.

EASY SCALLOPED POTATOES

1 1/2 pounds boiling potatoes
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
Few grinds pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon thyme, crumbled
1 cup grated monterey jack cheese
Minced parsley
Pare potatoes and slice very thinly lengthwise, about 1/8-inch thick. Combine with milk, butter salt, pepper, garlic and thyme in large saucepan. Heat to boiling and simmer 15 minutes, stirring often to prevent sticking. Transfer potatoes to 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in 350° oven about 20 minutes. Garnish with minced parsley. Make 4 to 6 servings.

Friars Cut Ticket Costs for 'Spectacular'

The San Diego Friars have announced a reduction of ticket prices for all matches scheduled as part of San Diego's tennis spectacular next month in the Sports Arena. Allan Kingston, president of the Friars, said that tickets have been reduced for both afternoon and evening matches and that a special $1 ticket for persons 18 and under has been established. "We want to make attendance at the Friars and World Team Tennis matches within the means of everyone," Kingston said. "Team tennis is an exciting sport for a sport that is gaining spectacular popularity. It is our aim to encourage as many persons, and not exclusively tennis-playing fans, to our matches. And we hope the announced reduction in ticket prices will help to stimulate public interest."

Ticket prices, Kingston announced, would be $6.50, $5.50 and $2.50 for all evening matches and $5, $3.50 and $2 for afternoon play. Persons 18 and under as well as military personnel will be admitted for $1. The price of all tickets includes parking. The appearance of the Pittsburgh team gives fans their first look at Evonne Goolagong, Mark Cox and Vitas Gerulaitis. Cleveland, also playing in San Diego for the first time, has the formidable Marty Reissen and Clark Groebner. Both Hawaii and Los Angeles participated in the May spectacular but should be welcome repeaters with such top players as John Newcombe, Margaret Court, Ross Case, Geoff Masters, Bob Lutz and Rosie Casals.

SLAM-DUNK — San Diego Breakers player-coach Rudy "Taz" Suwara kills the IVA volleyball in a recent game against El Paso/Juarez Sol. The game was televised from there and it created so much interest that more than 5,000 fans turned out for a return match played here last week. Well, the Sol is back tonight at the S.D. Sports Arena for a repeat and all seats will go for $1.50. The regular charge is $3-$4 and $5. The Sol boasts top-notch player-coach Mary Jo Peppler who was named Women's Super-star last year in ABC's Wide World of Sports. In the picture with Suwara, above, is the Breaker's female star, No. 10, Connie Gibbon.

L.G. Bobby Sox All-Stars Play for District Title

All Star district Tournament play began last week for Lemon Grove Bobby Sox League at Mira Mesa field, with the Minors defeating Del Gardens 3 to 2 on Saturday, but losing to Navajo 17-6 Sunday afternoon. They get another chance to stay in the playoffs when they play again during this week. The team is managed by Helen Murphy, and coached by Randy Beyer and Tony Bleyenbergh. The Major team will enter competition Saturday, at 4 p.m. playing Serra Mesa, who is hosting the Major District Tournament on their field. If they win that game, they will play again on Sunday at 6. If they lose, they will play at 4 p.m. A team remains in competition until it loses two games. The Major team is managed by Mary Nicholas, and coached by Norm James and Ruben Ledesma. Last week the League hosted a Dime-A-Dip potluck at Lemon Grove Junior High, at which time parents and team players had an opportunity to visit with the All Stars. Earlier in the month, the League held their annual Awards Banquet, when sponsors were introduced and feted. Trophies were presented to girls on the All Star teams. Voted by the players for Sportsmanship Award in the Majors was the Spicers, sponsored by Lido's. In the Minors, the Chargers received the award. Their sponsor was Sizzlers Steak.

Season tickets also are available for the August spectacular, either for all six events at $34.50, $24.50 and $12, and for the four evening sessions involving the Friars at $25, $18 and $9. Corporate box seats at $75 and $50 also are available. The Friars will meet Los Angeles August 6 to open the tennis spectacular and the team also is scheduled for evening matches August 8-10 against Hawaii, Pittsburgh and Cleveland. The Friars will play only into the fight between us and the San Francisco Giants for a first division finish. Even Houston has been making advances in the last few weeks. At one time they were lodged firmly in the cellar, but at the All-Star break they had chopped the margin down to jump eight games between them and the number five club. The Padres will play only Atlanta and Houston in this short break from Eastern Division competition as following the home-and-home series with the two clubs, San Diego will return to playing Eastern clubs. The Pads will spend the rest of August, following the Western homestand August 1-6, wrapping up the season series with all the Eastern teams except Chicago and Pittsburgh. When the Padres meet the Braves in a twin bill on July 25 it will mark the second time in three weeks that they have played a Friday doubleheader. The last one was against the Pirates on July 11 and that resulted in a double setback for the Pads. The Padres have only four more homestands remaining on the schedule for 1975. The stands are August 1-6 and 22-31 and September 8-14 and 28.

Padres Close Month in Atlanta and Houston

The San Diego Padres will be marching through Georgia and then on to the Lone Star State in the next week as they take on Western Division rivals Atlanta and Houston on the road. The eight-game-in-seven-days journey will conclude play in the month of July and set the stage for the final one-third of the season. San Diego, which was idle on Thursday, July 24, will open the swing with a doubleheader against the Atlanta Braves on July 25 followed by single contests on July 27-28. From there, the Padres will shift westwards to Texas and four single outings with the Houston Astros, July 28-31. The eight games will actually be setting the stage for return engagements in San Diego in early August between the Pads and the Braves and Astros. "We'll be seeing these two clubs for the first time since the end of April (the opening month of the season), Padre manager John McNamara said, "and I expect we'll be seeing different clubs from the ones we saw the first time around. Opponents Improve "Both the Braves and Astros have been playing better baseball lately and Atlanta is starting to make a push to get

Ferguson Signs Mariner Contract; Two Unsigned

The San Diego Mariners signed regulars, wingers Wayne Rivers and Rick Sentes. Right winger Norm Ferguson, 29, rated by general manager Ron Ingram as possibly the team's best "one on one" player, reached agreement for his eighth major league campaign. Terms and length of the pact were not announced. "Fergie is a team leader in his actions as well as name," said Ingram. "He did so many things well last year and I'm looking forward to a repeat effort." Ferguson played in every regular season and playoff contest, scoring 36 goals and 33 assists during the league schedule and adding six goals and five assists in ten playoff games. Statistically, it was his best-ever year. Before coming to World Hockey, Ferguson tallied 139 points in four National League terms and was voted Rookie of the Year with Oakland in the 1968-69 NHL season. He jumped to the WHA New York Raiders in 1972 and followed the team when it was relocated in New Jersey in 1973 and then to San Diego prior to last season. Ferguson's signing leaves SPEED AND SAFETY — Cha Cha Muldowney, in a Top Fuel Dragster, prepares to make a public service commercial on safety belts. She is the survivor of a sensational crash resulting from fire in which she suffered severe burns.

Guy to Beat is The Muldowney Gal

By Nick Paciulli

"I like to beat the boys!" These now famous, exact words flowed from the lip-sticked lips of drag racing's only licensed female top fuel driver two months ago at the N.H.R.A. Spring Nationals in Columbus, Ohio.

At that prestigious national event, Shirley "Cha Cha" Muldowney did just that. She beat the "boys" all day long beginning with No. 1 qualifier Rick Ramsey in the potent southern California based Kuhl & Olson dragster (OCIR track record holders at 5.95 seconds), then defeated Arcanum, Ohio's Paul Longnecker in round 2.

For "Cha Cha" Muldowney it appeared all her boasting of defeating the men drivers and dreams of surviving over her male counterparts might possibly be realized at this very event, as her winning run against Longnecker produced a swift 6.09 second time at over 230 mph.

Yes, indeed, the situation looked very favorable for "Cha Cha" with one "Big" exception. Ms. Muldowney's semi-final opponent was to be drag racing's all time "heavyweight" top fuel driver, "Big Daddy" Don Garlits.

Against "Big Daddy" Well, as history will bear out, it was Shirley Muldowney who expertly guided her 240 mph land borne missile off the starting line with the massive rear tires pushing her vehicle forward in a herculean blur of motion while Don "Big Daddy" Garlits, with apparently too much horsepower, fought for control of his powerful machine as the over abundance of power had caused his front wheels to go skyward.

Garlits lifted his right foot off the throttle for a split second to correct the situation then stood hard back on the throttle in a vain attempt to catch the fleeing lady and the embarrassment he knew would be his at the finish line.

All of "Big Daddy's" driving knowledge and ability couldn't offset the initial mistake that was made and it was Shirley Muldowney streaking across the finish line first with her biggest victory.

First Time Ever For the first time at any national event, a female driver would be in the Top Fuel final!

One hour later, the final round of one of drag racing's major events and only one man now stood between Shirley "Cha Cha" Muldowney and an unheard of national championship by a female fuel dragster pilot. The lone male driver who was able to avoid the onslaught of "Cha Cha" during eliminations was national champion Marvin Graham from Oklahoma City.

Certainly if Shirley could quite handily defeat the likes of Rick Ramsey, Paul Longnecker and Don Garlits, she could easily dispose of this soft spoken T.V. repairman from Oklahoma who, up to last year's Nationals at Indianapolis, was virtually unknown.

"Cha Cha" knew Graham

wouldn't be easy in the final as successive 6.05 and 6.06 second clockings had gained him the final round berth, but she was now very confident and was stimulated to new heights by the vocal support of the huge throng of spectators.

Gets Lead Early In that final race, once again Shirley used her feline-like reflexes to put her dragster into an early lead only to be betrayed by excessive tire spin about 400 feet off the starting line. Graham, about a car length behind, took full advantage of "Cha Cha's" momentary traction loss and moved in to a 2-car length lead at the 600 foot marker.

For most drivers the race would have been over, but Shirley "Cha Cha" Muldowney is definitely not like most drivers and she had come too far to give up her dream without a fight. Regaining her composure, as only a Don Garlits or a Don Prudhomme could, she corrected the traction problem and in the same motion gained back one of the car lengths she had lost to the national champion.

Heavy Foot With the tires again doing their job and the finish line getting closer and closer, Muldowney stood her size 6 foot on the throttle as hard as she possibly could.

If Graham made one little mistake, any mistake, the Spring Nationals title would be hers. Well, there was not to be a second chance for "Cha Cha" on that day, as Marvin's dragster didn't miss a beat and reached the finish line first at 6.19 seconds, 223 mph. Shirley, in her effort to catch Graham, crossed the finish line inches behind at 6.30 seconds and a much faster speed of 237 mph. In fact so rapid was "Cha Cha's" speed and so determined was her cause that it took an emergency net to stop her dragster at the end of the shut off area.

Second Chance Shirley Muldowney didn't get a second chance that Sunday in May but drag racing's only female top fuel driver might get a reprieve on a Saturday in July, as both she and National/Spring National champion Marvin Graham are entered in Orange County International Raceway's P.D.A. Championship. This week on Friday and Saturday.

Muldowney and Graham will be joined by Rick Ramsey, James Warren, Tony Nancy, Stan Shiroma, Jeb Allen and over 50 other top fuel drivers from virtually every state west of the Rockies.

Along with the 32 quickest fuel dragster qualifiers, competition will be provided for AA/Funny Cars, Pro Stock and Pro Comp.

TAKE FIVE

by John Wirges

You can wander all through life, brother, and not find one person as happy in his job as Padre broadcaster Bob Chandler. He likes the hours, the players, his co-workers and broadcasting colleagues on the other teams.

And, except for a quirk of fate, it almost never came about. Bob Chandler was earmarked for another career. He was to march to the beat of the Navy drum, as did his father, and his father's father and all the Chandler men before him back to the beginning of this country.

Bob's full name is Robert Alexander Chandler VIII, and when said in full, almost makes him sound like royalty.

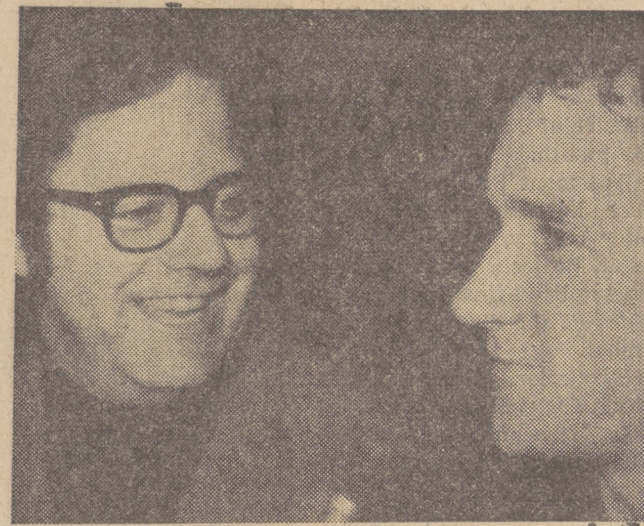

Of course, Bob's idea of royalty is the Pittsburgh broadcast team off Bob Prince and Nellie King. But his full handle makes him sound like someone out of the peerage crowd of the Knights in Armor league.

The name is well chosen for one of Chandler's ancestry. According to Funk and Wagnalls comprehensive dictionary, Alexander means "defender of men." A trade followed by the Robert Alexander Chandlers from one through seven.

It is said RAC-1 served with John Paul Jones back in Revolutionary War Days! The sea was in their blood and Bobby-1 stayed in the Navy and became skipper of a brig.

His son, Bobby-2 did the same and set the pattern for Chandler men for the next 200 years. Right down to the present time. Somehow or other the drum beat Bobby-8 was to follow got mixed in with a Pep Band and he got turned on by sports.

He got a wide look at sports growing up, going to schools from Rhode Island to Hawaii and most stops in between. He graduated from San Diego State University during the early Coryell years and is a hard bitten Aztec fan. He majored in broadcasting and minored in Pat McKee, who he married a month after they graduated.

Bob didn't take a commission like other Chandler men, but he did join the Naval Reserve. More to please his father than go to sea. He suffered every moment of active duty.

You see, Robert Alexander, Chandler VIII gets seasick in a bathtub. It's like he's the release of the curse for all the RACs before him. He feels uncomfortable in the rain, gets turned off by the surf and feels water is best put to use over ice and a little something else in a glass.

Bob started his sports life as a camera man at Channel-8, where Lyle Bond measured him and recommended him to Al Couppee.

Coup, of course, was the Sports Director at channel-10 until they went the pretty-boy route with their news department last year and one of the first assignments he gave Chandler was to shoot film on a fishing trip. Bobby gritted his teeth, swallowed his stomach and tried his best.

He got the film, all right, but he was so miserable looking that day Coup never sent him to sea again.

Bob moved on and up, becoming the Sports Director at KCST 39TV and doing the color of the (then San Diego) Rockets games. He did the TV coverage of all pre-season Charger games for a time before settling in with the Padres.

Bob is in his fourth year in the Padre Broadcast booth with Jerry Coleman and the pair were instrumental in turning a ho-hum public into rabid fans. Most folks bring radios to the game in order to hear what they see. That's loyalty . . . not believing what you see until you hear it. But that's the sports side of show biz. Unfortunately, it looks as if the Robert Alexander Chandler chain will end with Bob-8. He and Pat have no sons. They do have four daughters, however, and who knows? One of them might continue in the Naval officer tradition.

It could be Robin, 11, though she wants to be a lawyer. Or it could be Lisa, 8, though she wants to be a geologist. And Jill, 6, wants to be a ballet dancer.

One thing sure. Bonnie, 12, isn't going to join the Navy. She has her heart set on becoming a professional baseball player.

Inflation Affects

Tax Dollars Climb; Sales Volume Falls

Taxable sales in California rose to 16.1 billion for the first three months of 1975, a gain of $830 million or 5.5 percent over the first quarter of 1974 according to a report released by State Board of Equalization Chairman John W. Lynch.

However, the report, Taxable Sales in California—First Quarter of 1975, states that the inflationary spiral pushed prices up 12.3 percent over the same period in 1974 and since sales failed to keep pace with inflation, the actual physical volume of goods sold was 6 percent less than in the first quarter of 1974.

State sales and use tax collections for this period totaled $779.5 million, while local (city and county) sales and use tax collections totaled $254.5 million, for a combined total of more than $1 billion.

Taxable sales in San Diego County for the first quarter of 1975 were up 7.5 percent for a total of $1,029,290.

For the eleventh consecutive quarter nondurables continued to outperform durables, recording an increase of 7.6 percent as compared to the 1.7 percent gain in durables. According to the report performance of retail stores was generally weak.

The largest gain for any type of business (117.6 percent) was recorded for a non-retail class — producers, refiners, and wholesalers of petroleum and petroleum products. Since the energy crisis developed in the fall of 1973, Calvin R. Lakin, 3605 Fairview drive, Lemon Grove, owner of the firm reported the loss and named a suspect, sheriff's deputies reported.

Jaywalkers New Target in CHP's Road Safety Drive

Young jaywalkers are going to be reported to their parents when the California Highway Patrol spots them, Commissioner Glen B. Craig has warned.

Craig announced that the CHP's successful program to reduce the accident toll among under-18 bicycle riders is being extended to include children on foot who endanger their lives by violating Vehicle Code sections on the rights and duties of pedestrians.

The program consists of on-the-spot explanations of safe and proper procedures, informal citations, parental notification and bicycle and pedestrian safety presentations in the schools and through youth organizations.

"This approach, plus the increased ticketing of adult violators, played an important part in reversing an upward trend in bicycle deaths and injuries," Craig said.

"We think it's important to extend this effort for the protection of the youngsters. Those under 18 are major contributors to both the bicycle and pedestrian accident problems."

The CHP began its bicycle program when deaths and injuries more than doubled between 1969 and 1972.

Citations, including the informal ones to youngsters, increased 500 percent in 1973, and bicycle injuries went down by two percent and have held steady since, despite a continuing increase in the number of bikes on the road.

Bicycle deaths dropped from 128 in 1972 to 118 in 1973 and 108 last year.

For children not yet 15, the officer who spots a pedestrian or bicycle violation worthy of more than a verbal warning uses an informal citation procedure.

For those 15 through 17 he may use this procedure or issue a regular citation requiring an appearance in juvenile court, depending on his estimate of the seriousness of the violation.

In the informal procedure the citation is not given to the violator, but is filled out and marked for special handling and parental notification.

This triggers a form letter to the parents in which the Vehicle Code violation is cited and the circumstances explained.

Registration for the course is $69.

Class Helps Prospects Pass Tax Aide Exam

The opportunity to earn a "treasury card", proof of credentials to represent taxpayers in IRS-related matters, is offered to the public in a summer evening course at UCSD.

IRS Branch Chief F. Max Poppleton will teach the "IRS Enrolled Agent Examination Review" from August 12 through September 18. The exam itself is slated for September 29 and 30.

Those taking the course should already have basic knowledge of individual, partnership and corporate income tax, according to Poppleton. Among the topics he will cover during the six-week review are filing requirements, gross income, gains and losses, deductions and depreciation. The course may be used to meet continuing education and relicensing requirements of the State Board of Accountancy.

Registration for the course is $69. This triggers a form letter to the parents in which the Vehicle Code violation is cited and the circumstances explained.

EIR Study Initiated For Reservoir Project

Authorization to select an environmental impact report agency for the project of covering of Grossmont Reservoir was granted by the Helix Water District board of directors to Clarence Watters, district associate general manager and chief engineer, earlier this month.

Grossmont Reservoir, which must be covered to protect water quality, is one of four major projects approved for revenue bond financing by the voters of the district last November.

Negotiations between Helix Water District and the cities of La Mesa and El Cajon are being conducted to plan the area for recreational use following construction of the covered reservoir.

Skate Board Parts Worth $100 Taken

Julia Karin, a make-up artist who had plans to go into the skate-board business, may have to wait awhile.

She had more than $100 worth of skate-board parts in her kitchen cabinet at her home at 8423 Broadway, Lemon Grove before she checked on them about 10 a.m. July 14. Then she discovered they were gone.

She said she bought the items from a dealer in Anaheim. Police could discover no point that indicated where the burglar got in.

Drill Loss $600

Six steel hammer drills valued at $603 were taken from the office of Coronado Pools, 3705 Cordova, in Spring Valley during the July 12-13 weekend.

Calvin R. Lakin, 3605 Fairview drive, Lemon Grove, owner of the firm reported the loss and named a suspect, sheriff's deputies reported.

Letters Back LEEP

Senator John V. Tunney (D. Calif.) said he had received letters from hundreds of California police chiefs protesting the Administration's proposed 45 percent cutback in funds for the Law Enforcement Education Program.

The program provides grants and loans for law enforcement personnel to pursue their education in criminology and related fields. In Fiscal 1974 and 1975, Tunney said, some 31,520 California officers participated in the program.

Tunney urged Sen. John O. Pastore, chairman of the Subcommittee on State, Justice and Commerce Appropriations, to authorize $40 million for the program, the amount spent last year.

The House Appropriations Committee has approved this funding level, despite the Administration's proposed cuts.

Enlistees' Pace Sets Record District Recruiters Report

Two years ago on June 30, Congress abolished the draft in favor of an all-volunteer Army. At that time the Pentagon feared volunteers of good quality simply wouldn't be available in adequate numbers. But today, the Army reports that it is getting more volunteers than it can accommodate — new recruits are packing Army barracks and turning out to be some of the brightest and best-motivated young men and women in military history.

"The Army is better than ever," says former Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway. "About 75 per cent of the enlisted ranks are high school graduates today."

For the first time in history, Army recruiters across the country are turning away hundreds of candidates who want to enlist, according to a spokesman at District Recruiting Command in Santa Ana.

Young men and women are discovering that military life looks attractive in the midst of today's recession, but that isn't the only reason.

"Undoubtedly, rising unemployment is increasing the number of applicants for the Armed Forces," explains Major General L. Gordon Hill, Jr., Army Chief of Public Information. "However, during the first year of the all-volunteer force, more than 199,000 men and women enlisted in the Army, and that was before recession and rising unemployment. We in the Army do not believe these were major factors in this earlier recruiting success."

General Hill explained that Army life has become more attractive because improvements have been made in the quality and training of the recruiting force, and that the Army now has many new enlistment options and programs that are attracting more and more young people.

The turnout of young men has jumped sky high, some recruiting inducements have been cut back, recruiters say. Adequate numbers are enlisting for front-line infantry, tank and artillery units. Thus, the enlistment bonus for joining the artillery branch has been cut from $2500 to $1500, and the $2500 bonus in the infantry and armor branches is under review.

$344 Per Month
Today's Army is structured to attract people with ambition. It offers good pay with substantial fringe benefits, travel, and educational benefits. Currently, a new enlistee earns $344 per month, plus

Contractor is Loser
While Bruce Alan Johnson, a contractor, was away, his abode was entered and the intruder left with items worth $325, he told sheriff's deputies on July 11.

Clocks, a radio, records, clothing and watches were part of his loss. Johnson lives at 8366 Broadway, Lemon Grove.

free room, board, and medical care.

Major changes have taken place in volunteer Army life, such as no reveille, no KP duty, less harassment, no bed checks, and more realistic training schedules. Opportunity in the volunteer Army is very broad, whether one is seeking a service career or using the Army as a stepping stone to a civilian career.

Today a young enlistee has the opportunity to attend college, with the Army paying up to 75 per cent of one's tuition costs. In fact, through "Project Ahead," an individual can complete two years of college during a three-year Army enlistment.

Women, Too
The opportunity for women is unsurpassed, too. Women are joining in record peacetime numbers, filling hundreds of previously male-oriented jobs. Within the past four years, the number of women has tripled to the current 35,000. Although only 4.5 per cent of the entire Army's force, the figure is the highest in military history.

Item Provides Fire District Weather Station

A bonus on an item published in this newspaper several weeks ago provided the Lemon Grove Fire District with an authorized weather station.

The Department had been notified earlier this year that the equipment used in the years past could not now be approved because part of it was made of wood. Metal is required.

Fire Chief Fred Dixon reported that the article, telling of the condemnation of the station and urging public assistance, reached George D. Ochs, Chief of the Flight Service Station at the Barstow-Daggett airport offering Lemon Grove a weather station free.

The Lemon Grove District accepted the offer with appreciation and the equipment is now in operation.

Dixon explained that such a station is not fire suppression equipment and District funds could not be used for the weather station's replacement.

If You Believe You've Been Cheated

A series of consumer protection advisories have been prepared by the California Trial Lawyers Association to warn consumers of some of the hazards of signing a contract. The following article is one of several that will be published in this column for several weeks.

Consumers are urged to write CTLA for their Consumer Protection Pamphlet which tells "How Not to Be Cheated and Who to Contact If You Are."

The address is at the end of this week's Column.

Condominium Management
(This is the final installment of a special three-part series on condominiums.)

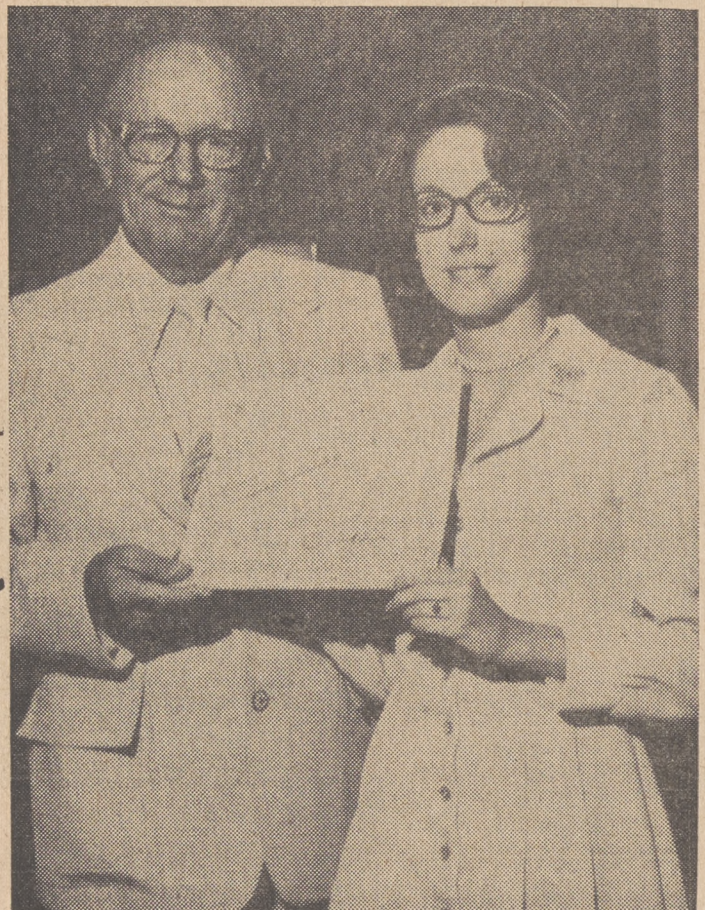

All condominium projects have owners' associations to provide present and future maintenance and operation. All owners must join. Thus, condo ownership requires knowledgeable owners or representation by qualified professionals. Because they are naive or unbusinesslike, many condo associations suffer from some or all of several problems:

- Failure to provide adequate funds for operation and maintenance, both immediate and deferred.
- Failure to administer and enforce the Declaration of Restrictions to protect the desirable character of the project and unit resale values.
- Inability to distinguish between competent professionals and rip-off property management services.
- General deterioration of the value in the complex followed by unsatisfactory tenants, neglectful owners and eventual unit abandonment.
- Inability to protect the overall development and the rest of the owners from vacated and neglected units.

When you buy a condo, you surrender much direct control over the future value of your home to the owner's association. But while condos present many traps for the unwary, they provide many benefits usually not available with traditional home ownership.

Smart consumers approach condos with healthy skepticism and will thoroughly investigate both the project and developer before they buy.

$45 MILLION MAN — County Treasurer, Delavan Dickson, accepts $45 million check and revenue notes from Donna Le Rocca, investment officer with Bank of America. The Bank was the lowest bidder on the revenue notes with an interest rate of 3.96 per cent.

Last year the County borrowed some $30 million in revenue notes at an interest rate of 6.7 per cent. This year's highest interest bid was 4.42 per cent. The County uses the funds from the notes as cash flow until property taxes and other anticipated revenues have been collected.

Tunney's Bill for Developing Non-Internal Combustion Engine OK'd

John V. Tunney (D. Calif.) hailed Senate passage of his legislation calling for an urgent research and development program to produce an energy-efficient, smog-free alternative to the internal combustion car engine.

Tunney said development of the new auto engine could "accomplish enormous fuel savings and drastically reduce smog-producing auto emissions."

Title II of the bill, the Automobile Fuel Economy and Research and Development Act (S. 1883), which passed the Senate last week, authorizes grants of up to $175 million and Federally guaranteed loans of up to $175 million to develop the engine.

The measure also mandates minimum fuel efficiency standards for cars. Similar legislation was approved by the Senate last year as part of the National Fuels and Energy Conservation Act, but died in the House.

The Senator's bill calls for the best practicable level of energy conservation while mandating the cost, noise, durability and safety criteria also be met in a smog-free engine.

"The big auto companies, with billions of dollars invested in the present internal combustion engine and the big car configuration are prisoners of their past profits," Tunney said. "They will continue to foist off on the public more gas-guzzling, high polluting models unless they are pushed much harder than the government has been willing to push."

Area Republicans to Hear State GOP Committeeman

Mike Montgomery, vice-chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, of Pasadena, will address the Heartland Republican Assembly on Monday, at 7:30 p.m. in Room B of the Sears Community Center (second floor) in Parkway Plaza Shopping Mall, El Cajon.

Montgomery will discuss "The Current Status of the Republican Party in California" and will stress the need for more grass roots participation in political party operations today.

The Heartland Republican Assembly, which is currently being reactivated, plans an active role in candidate selection and support. Regular social events will also be an important part of the program. Membership is open to any Republican in Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, El Cajon, La Mesa, San Carlos or surrounding areas. All Republicans and friends from these areas are invited to hear Montgomery.

Wayne McCann, of HRA can be reached at 447-3009 or 447-8031.

Free Texts to All Comers at Book Giveaway

If you're having a difficult time conjuring up your favorite Latin phrase and would like to brush up on it and others, Grossmont High School is the place to be on Friday. The area high school district is giving away more than 100 Latin textbooks that day in their annual book giveaway.

About 5,000 books will be given away this year and citizens of the community are invited to come to Grossmont High School, room 174A in the Library bldg. from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. to select books of their choice.

Each year the schools of the Grossmont Union High School District inventory their books and eliminate outdated and worn out texts. Lists of unwanted books in each school are circulated to all other schools and those books that are slated for disposal are made available to any other school district upon request.

Books that are determined to be of no further use are then made available to the community.

Included in the wide range of subjects are chemistry, geography, social studies, journalism, drivers education, economics, math, Spanish, French and English.

Household Items Taken

Laurie Williams, of 1434 San Altos st., Lemon Grove, told sheriff's deputies that a thief had forced open her locked garage door to enter her premises and made off with her dryer, refrigerator, coffee and end tables. Her loss, she said, was $675. Neighbors described a suspect who loaded the items on a truck, they said.

Garage Burglarized

A thief pried the garage door open to Virginia Moore's house at 3745 Costa Bella to get away with items valued at $292, she told sheriff's deputies July 7.

The garage, she said, is presently occupied by her son and both were away from home when the burglary occurred.

Among the missing items were a vacuum sweeper, a circular saw, tape cassette, and a drill.

Home 'Tax Relief' to Dwindle, CTA Chief Cautions Homeowners

This will be the year when the "property tax relief" initiated through limits on tax rates and a $1,750 exemption on assessed value for homeowners will begin disappearing, Kirk West, executive vice president of the California Taxpayers' Association, cautioned recently.

"Throughout the state assessors are increasing assessments on homes 20 to 60 percent due to pressures from inflation and those increases will increase property taxes by percentages greater than the assessment increase; and hit lower income homeowners hardest," West said.

West wants taxpayers to let their local officials know they want offsetting reductions in tax rates. "This can only be achieved through holding down the budgets at all levels," he said.

Why Higher Assessment?
The large increases in appraisals reflect problems of inflation and the construction industry. The value of a home is determined by land costs and building comparable new houses. Thus the homeowner, who still lives in the same house for which he paid $20,000 or $25,000, suddenly finds his home reappraised at $40,000 to $50,000, with the bulk of that increase accelerated in the past 10 years. In the past five years land and construction costs have risen, not only because of inflation hitting all phases of the economy, but because government has increased the costs through added fees and construction standards.

The taxpayers association has compiled a chart graphing the changes that a 20 or 40 percent increase in property assessments would have on taxes in the county.

A $20,000 home in San Diego with current property tax rate of $325 would face a tax increase to $425 with a 20 percent assessment increase and to $526 if the assessment rose 40 percent.

Tax on a $30,000 home is listed at $576 in the county. A 20 per cent assessment increase would raise the figure to $726, a 40 per cent assessment to $876, according to the chart.

$40,000 homes currently taxed $826 would be worth $1027 in property tax if assessed 20 per cent above current value and to $1227 if the assessment were 40 per cent higher.

The figures were computed assuming no increase in the present tax rates.

The poorer family, where the homeowners exemption of $1,750 assessed valuation gave larger tax benefit, bears an increasing burden from assessment increases, says West. Based upon current law which assesses homes at 25 per cent of market or appraised value, then gives a homeowners exemption of $1,750, the base tax rate with at least a 20 per cent assessment increase would be increased a minimum of $1000.

Cost of Living Boosted 9.9% For SSI Needy

California's 630,000 needy aged, blind, and disabled persons can expect larger checks in September as a result of the $65 million in added cost of living benefits passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor this month.

Health and Welfare Agency Secretary Mario Obledo said that while the higher payment levels took effect July 1, it will be 60 days before the Social Security Administration check-paying system can begin delivering the higher amounts.

Continuing recipients should receive separate checks covering retroactive payments between July 1 and the date when the new higher payments begin.

The additional $65 million in state money means a total cost of living increase of 9.9 percent for fiscal 1975-76 for those in the Supplemental Security Income program.

For an aged individual the added money means a $24 a month increase over the amount received before July 1. The payment level for persons in this category is being increased from $235 to $259 a month, although from July 1 until the new levels are in effect payments will be made at the $250 level.

Blind recipients who had been receiving $265 before July 1 will receive payments of $283 until September when the checks under the higher payment level of $292 can be paid.

Acting Director of Benefit Payments Jerry Prod said a small number of recipients with relatively high outside incomes could find themselves temporarily ineligible during the transition to the higher payment levels. He said the state would be identifying these persons to insure their eligibility for Medi-Cal would continue without interruption.

Malpractice Program For Public at Sharp

James E. Ludlum, a specialist in the field of health law, will speak on "Malpractice and You" at a special luncheon meeting for Sharp Advisory Council members and guests Friday at 12:15 in the hospital auditorium.

A member of a prominent Los Angeles legal firm, Ludlum has long been associated as advisor and legal counsel to many top health organizations. His accomplishments for hospital patients, employees, trustees, administrators and doctors keep him in constant demand as a speaker before service, civic clubs and organizations.

It is the first of two July programs aimed at keeping the community informed about the ongoing malpractice crisis. On June 30, Dr. Malcolm C. Todd, immediate past president and spokesman for the American Medical Association, will also address a Sharp gathering to discuss this topic from the AMA's point of view.

More than two million inexpensive ball point pens are sold daily in the U.S., according to a large manufacturer.

MONEY RIBBON — Elaine Schmidt, Miss Spring Valley, prepares to cut the ribbon at Tuesday dedication ceremonies for the new McDonald's restaurant now open on Jamacha Blvd. near Sweetwater rd. in Spring Valley. The ribbon was made of 50 one-dollar bills which the local franchise is donating to the Encanto Boys Club chapter as a community gesture.

Assisting Miss Spring Valley is Doug Smith, manager of the new unit. In background are Art Curry, branch director at the Encanto Boys Club and Duvall Cross, the Club's elected ward of the month. Grand Opening festivities continue Saturday at 2 p.m. with an in-person appearance of Ronald McDonald.

filled up with water supplied by Helix Water District. From then on, lake water will be constantly changed by incoming district water which will be displaced by constant drainage and use of lake water to irrigate the development's landscape.

The Sewage Controversy

Golden's property is moving closer to annexation to the City of La Mesa, according to Wier, a necessary step in order to tie in with the city's sewage system. One of the lures for the city to favor the annexation is the construction firm's offer to pick up the tab for four-fifths of a mile of gravity-fed sewage line from the development to the nearest tie-in on Shirley drive.

All present surrounding homes are using septic systems and owners fear that the presence of an available sewage line will give the board of health incentive to condemn their septic systems. Forced tie-in to the sewage line, according to Mrs. DeWaide, represents a loss of thousands of dollars in septic system equipment.

Weir has countered with statements that a properly maintained septic system can not be condemned and that tying into the new sewer line will be less expensive for residents than will long-run maintenance costs of the antiquated septic systems.

Neighborhood Changes

Mrs. DeWaide and other Friends are vocal about changes to the character of the immediate area. When the land belonging to Ed Fletcher was doled out back in the 1920's, restrictions were written into the deeds which demanded that residents who built on the property retain the rural, Spanish-style architecture which would enhance the beauty of the area.

Friends of Lake Helix cite the building project's modern architecture, plans for tennis courts and street lighting as violations of the long-honored wishes of Mr. Fletcher.

Golden Co. planners maintain that the new development will, in fact, enhance the area by improving the quality of the lake, bringing in an up-to-date sewage system and preserving the property's ecology with a full-time maintenance crew. Wier stressed that the plans call for no above-ground utility poles and that the street-lighting will be subdued and lower than usual street lighting fixtures.

Noise is another worry of the nearby residents who claim that the "teacup" topography will cause noises from the cluster of homes — located at the bottom of the "cup" — to echo upward.

Wier counters the fear by noting that each homeowner will utilize an average of 3/4 of an acre at the complex. He cites the present density of surrounding properties at one home for every half acre, concluding that the luxury home project will be less dense than is already existing housing.

Actual lot sizes will be less than 3/4 of an acre and will be concentrated on 31 percent of the 21.5 acres. However, the remainder of the property, including the lake, will be jointly owned by all of the development's owners.

Battle Continues

While the Friends of Lake Helix continue their efforts to block the construction, Golden Co. continues to dredge the lake and move ahead with construction plans.

The neighborhood community group boasts a membership of about 100 citizens concerned enough to contribute funds for the cause. Petitions have produced about 300 signatures from local residents interested in helping to keep the lake as a natural preserve.

The Friends have even gone so far as to offer the construction firm $80,000 to buy the property.

Golden Co. presses on with plans, citing positive feedback from several governmental agencies who have requested hearings. Hearings before the La Mesa City Council, County Planning Commission and the Land Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) have produced sentiment favoring the lake dredging and the home project, according to Wier.

San Diegans Want Harder Line on Illegal Aliens

Constituents of Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin (42nd Congressional District) are strongly in favor of gun control, no-fault auto insurance and a woman's right to abortion. They have little use for illegal aliens — or the persons who hire them. And they tend to be gloomy about their own financial circumstances and prospects.

22,000 responded to his lengthy questionnaire. Opinion was closely divided on some issues.

A small plurality favors a Brown Field location for a new commercial airport. A modest majority supports national health insurance. Despite environmental objections, offshore drilling is the most widely accepted method of reducing our national dependency on costly foreign oil. And the 42nd District looks with favor on military commissaries and defense spending generally, although less than one-tenth of respondents are satisfied with the way the war in Vietnam was conducted.

On the airport relocation question, Brown Field was chosen by 33.5 percent, while 26.1 percent opted for Miramar Naval Air Station — but a surprising 16.8 percent wrote in their preference for keeping commercial airline operations at Lindbergh Field. 23.6 percent had no opinion.

Gun Owners

Licensing gun owners and registering their weapons was favored by 62.4 percent, opposed by 33.9 percent, with only 3.7 percent withholding opinion. (An identically worded question on Van Deerlin's 1973 survey found 66.7 percent in favor of the proposed controls, 30 percent against them.)

On another emotional issue, abortion, 74.6 percent said the matter should be left to the woman and her doctor, 13.2 percent said it should be regulated by law, and 12.2 percent did not venture an opinion or had other suggestions.

Women's rights in the more general sense also drew strong backing. The proposed Equal Rights Amendment, to repeal any law or legal practice that discriminates against women, was supported by 56 percent of those replying. It was opposed by 31.2 percent, and 12.8 percent had no opinion. (Though enacted by Congress, the amendment has not yet been ratified by the necessary 38 states.)

Illegal Aliens

Van Deerlin's constituents take a harder line on illegal aliens. A large majority favor penalties for companies that knowingly employ illegal aliens. Constituents are also heavily opposed to any "amnesty" program for illegals who have established themselves in this country in years past.

Punishment for the employers was favored by 84.3 percent, while 65.2 percent were opposed to letting an illegal alien remain in the U.S. even if he has already been here for at least five years with a clean record.

Support for no-fault auto insurance in the four years has picked up since Van Deerlin last queried his constituents about the proposal to require automatic compensation of victims by their own insurers, regardless of who was to blame for an accident.

This time, the no-fault plan was backed by 65.4 percent compared with a 56.2 percent favorable response to an identically worded question in Van Deerlin's 1971 questionnaire. Opposition fell in the same period from 30.5 percent to 22.8 percent.

This time, there is also another difference — Van Deerlin is chairman of the House subcommittee that is now considering national no-fault insurance standards.

Military Oriented

The military cast of the 42nd District is reflected in the voting outcome on questions concerning national defense and military benefits. Government support of military commissaries at present or higher levels was called for by 53.7 percent, while only 32.7 percent wanted the Government to cut back on these subsidies. Likewise, a reduction in defense spending in relation to the rest of the federal budget was endorsed by 23.9 percent (compared with 41.2 percent who thought such spending should be increased and 30.3 percent who wanted to keep it at present levels).

In the wake of North Vietnam's recent victories, Van Deerlin sought to sample general opinion concerning the prolonged U.S. military presence in Southeast Asia.

Only nine percent thought the United States "did all that could have reasonably been expected by our South Vietnamese allies."

Another 41.2 percent said the U.S. should have "gone all-out" to win the war, while a plurality of 49.8 percent felt we never should have become involved in Vietnam in the first place.

Health Insurance Wanted

National health insurance, a long standing proposal, was given a nod, but by a relatively modest margin. The proposal to have Government sponsor a medicare-like health care system for Americans of all ages was backed by 52.1 percent, opposed by 40.2 percent.

The constituents were generally pessimistic about their own circumstances, perhaps a reflection of the sluggish national economy, coupled with disbelief in the ability of Government to improve the situation.

About 37 percent saw themselves as worse off than a year ago. Only 17.1 percent believed their financial condition would improve in the foreseeable future, while 32.7 felt it would get worse.

On the plus side, most families — 72.1 percents — reported at least one member had a fulltime job. Van Deerlin said the figure is better than it may seem, since many jobless households consist of retirees, students and others who are not seeking permanent employment.

Ford Graded "B"

President Ford drew mixed notices from the 42nd District, with 7.3 percent rating his performance in office as "excellent", 30.5 percent "good", 39 percent "fair" and 19.8 percent "poor". The remaining 3.4 percent had no opinion.

Constituents were cool to a new, one-half percent sales tax to pay for partial costs of a rapid transit system for the San Diego area. Such a tax would be "willingly" paid by 44.8 percent, while 47.6 percent would resist such a levy.

Constituents were divided on the best ways to save gasoline, as they indicated on a multiple-choice question that completed the survey. Just over half — 50.3 percent — though offshore drilling was an answer. But there was also support for a special tax on "gas guzzling" cars (36.7 percent), opening Naval petroleum reserves (28.8 percent), and gasoline rationing (27.6 percent).

Public Hearing On Countywide Plan

The County Planning Commission will hold a public hearing July 25 to consider an amendment to the Open Space Element of the San Diego County General Plan-1990. The plan covers the entire county. The hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in room 358 of the County Administration Center, 1600 Pacific Highway, in San Diego.

The purpose of the hearing is to consider proposed additions to the Open Space Element Map showing additional agricultural preserves and open space easements approved by the Board of Supervisors since the last update of the map.

Specific information is available at the Integrated Planning Office, room 207, County Administration Center. Ask for Bill Chatham, phone 236-3590.

On how to organize a presentation for this hearing, contact the Office of Citizen Planning Advisor, at the County Administration Center, phone 236-2742.

Instant Service

Two 17-year old Brookside youths were arrested after they allegedly stole a napkin dispenser from Jack-in-the-Box at 10255 Campo rd., Spring Valley.

Soon after J-in-B clerk Keith M. Telle reported the theft to sheriff's deputies, El Cajon police reported they had arrested the suspects who had the dispenser. The dispenser is worth $17 Telle said.
